Their journey was filled with challenges. Lisa underwent multiple rounds of fertility treatments, each one bringing with it a glimmer of hope that quickly turned to despair. David was there for her every step of the way, providing love and support.

In 2010, after eight years of trying, Lisa finally became pregnant. But their joy was short-lived. At 20 weeks, they learned that their baby had a severe heart defect. They were faced with the impossible decision of whether to terminate the pregnancy or carry it to term, knowing that their baby might not survive.

Lisa and David chose to carry the pregnancy to term. They spent the next few months preparing for the worst while still holding out hope for a miracle. In October 2010, their son, Ethan, was born. He was a beautiful baby, but his heart defect was too severe. He died in Lisa's arms just hours after he was born.

Ethan's death was a devastating blow to Lisa and David. They grieved for their lost son, but they also knew that they had to keep going. They wanted to have a family, and they were not ready to give up.

In 2012, Lisa became pregnant again. This time, the pregnancy was successful and in May 2013, they welcomed their daughter, Lily, into the world. Lily was a healthy, happy baby, and she brought immeasurable joy to Lisa and David.

Lisa and David's journey to parenthood was not easy. It was filled with love, loss, and triumph. But through it all, they never gave up on their dream of becoming parents. Their story is an inspiration to all who are struggling to conceive. It shows that with love, perseverance, and a little bit of luck, anything is possible.
