

The Last Fighter Pilot: A Thrilling Tale of Courage and Survival

Colonel Bud Anderson was one of the most decorated fighter pilots in American history. He flew over 100 combat missions in World War II and the Vietnam War, and shot down 16 enemy aircraft. His story is one of courage, perseverance, and survival.

The Last Fighter Pilot: The True Story of the Final Combat Mission of World War II by Don Brown

★★★★☆ 4.6 out of 5

Language : English
File size : 6556 KB
Text-to-Speech : Enabled
Screen Reader : Supported
Enhanced typesetting : Enabled
X-Ray : Enabled
Word Wise : Enabled
Print length : 248 pages

Early Life and Career

Bud Anderson was born in Oakland, California, in 1921. He grew up in a family of aviators, and he developed a passion for flying at an early age. He joined the Army Air Corps in 1942, and he was assigned to the 357th Fighter Group. He flew his first combat mission in 1943, and he quickly proved himself to be a skilled and courageous pilot.

World War II

Anderson flew over 100 combat missions in World War II, and he shot down 16 enemy aircraft. He was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross, the Silver Star, and the Distinguished Flying Cross. He also received the French Croix de Guerre and the Belgian Croix de Guerre.

Anderson's most famous victory came in 1944, when he shot down five enemy aircraft in a single day. He was flying a P-51 Mustang when he encountered a group of German fighters. He shot down four of the fighters in quick succession, and then he chased down the fifth fighter and shot it down as well.

Vietnam War

After World War II, Anderson continued to serve in the Air Force. He flew combat missions in the Korean War and the Vietnam War. He was promoted to the rank of colonel in 1965, and he was given command of the 355th Fighter Wing.

Anderson flew over 100 combat missions in Vietnam, and he shot down two enemy aircraft. He was awarded the Air Force Cross, the Silver Star, and the Distinguished Flying Cross. He also received the Vietnamese Cross of Gallantry.

Col. Bud Anderson in Vietnam

Later Years

After the Vietnam War, Anderson retired from the Air Force and went on to have a successful career in business. He wrote his autobiography, "To Fly and Fight," in 2005. He died in 2010 at the age of 89.

Bud Anderson was a true American hero. He dedicated his life to serving his country, and he risked his life many times in Free Download to defend the freedom of others. He was a skilled and courageous fighter pilot, and his story is an inspiration to us all.

The Last Fighter Pilot: The True Story of the Final Combat Mission of World War II by Don Brown

★★★★☆ 4.6 out of 5

Language : English
File size : 6556 KB
Text-to-Speech : Enabled
Screen Reader : Supported
Enhanced typesetting : Enabled
X-Ray : Enabled
Word Wise : Enabled
Print length : 248 pages

The Quintessential American Cook: A Culinary Journey with Duncan Hines

Prologue: The Man Behind the Name Duncan Hines, a name synonymous with American dining, was born in 1880 into a humble farming family in Bowling...

Introducing Romanticism: A Literary Guide to the Romantic Era

Romanticism was a literary movement that emerged in the late 18th century and flourished in the early 19th century. It was a reaction against the...